

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The memory system includes a bitline leakage current compensation circuit for compensating for leakage current in an operational memory array by measuring the leakage current in a non-operational memory array or a dummy memory array and providing a feedback signal to a current source or providing the compensation current.